

WOLF LAKE STATE FOREST

Foot Trails

The Wolf Lake State Forest is located in the Towns of Hermon and Edwards. As there are several trails to this system, each trail will be described separately.

Directions

The northeast part of this area is accessible by an extension of the Pond road, which may be reached by following the Edwards-Dekalb road (County road 19) northerly out of Edwards. Take the Sam Dry road (Pond Road) to the south. The Southwest part of Wolf Lake State Forest is accessible by taking the Ames Road westerly out of Talcville. To reach Talcville take the Talcville road off State road 58 between Fowler and Fine.

Talcville-Moon Lake Trail

This 1.5 mile trail (blue markers) leads to Moon Lake, the smallest (10 acres) of the three named lakes in the area. You will find beaver activity along this trail and most of the others.

Moon Lake-Wolf Lake Trail

This is 0.4-mile trail (blue markers) leads to a lean-to on the northwest shore of Wolf Lake. The 25-acre lake has some excellent camping sites and good bass fishing.

Moon Lake-Huckleberry Lake Trail

This 1 mile trail (yellow markers) leads to the lean-to on the southwest shore of Huckleberry Lake. The lake is heavily used throughout the year, especially during bass season. It is quite large at approximately 55 acres and offers excellent fishing opportunities.

Talcville-Huckleberry Lake Trail

The 1 mile trail (yellow markers) is a reasonably good carry for canoes or small boats to Huckleberry Lake. The last ¼ mile passes through a stand of native white pine ranging up to 30 inches in diameter. When you reach Huckleberry Lake on this trail you will be standing on the west boundary of the state forest. This line runs approximately due north across the lake from this point.

Pond Road-Wolf Lake Trail

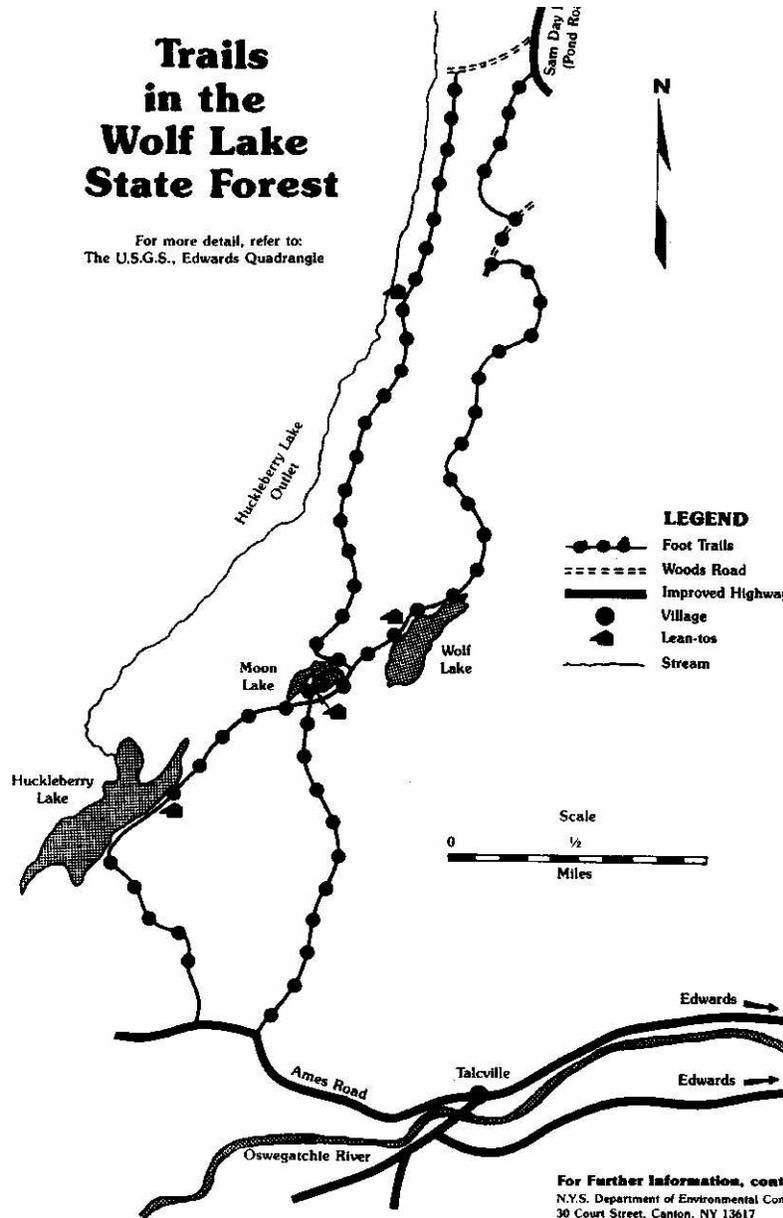

This 3 mile trail (yellow markers) begin at the extension of the Pond Road and leads to the Wolf Lake lean to

Pond Road-Moon Lake Trail

This 3-mile trail (red markers) leads the hiker along old beaver ponds on Huckleberry Lake Outlet. The starting point on the north is reached by turning west off the Pond Road and walking about 0.3 miles to an old farm site. This trail offers some nice vistas across the beaver marshes and many good spots from which to observe wildlife.

Trails in the Wolf Lake State Forest

For more detail, refer to:
The U.S.G.S., Edwards Quadrangle

For Further Information, contact:
N.Y.S. Department of Environmental Conservation,
30 Court Street, Canton, NY 13617
(315) 386-4546.