National Public Health Week (NPHW) 2021 - April 5 – 11

Canton, NY— The St. Lawrence County Public Health Department is celebrating National Public Health Week April 5th – 11th! Although we may be physically distance from each other, it's now more important than ever to come together to recognize the contributions of public health and highlight issues that are important to improving the health of our community and communities across the nation.

Making communities safe and healthy is public health's top priority. COVID-19 has made that even more important. Even though we won't gather in person, we will use our social media platform to spotlight how public health is strengthening and supporting the foundation of our health and our communities. Be sure to check out the St. Lawrence County Public Health Department Facebook page @SLCPublicHealth each day of National Public Health week as we share how we can all build bridges to better health for our communities.

St. Lawrence County Public Health would like to thank our variety of partnerships with local hospital systems, federally qualified health centers, higher education, human services, and community-based organizations who continuously work to help improve the health of our community— especially during this past year.

We hope that each day you'll see how you fit into to building stronger, healthier communities. Even as we are physically distance, we know that we're all working together, and we look forward to celebrating NPHW 2021!
